THE LIVING OBELISH. nge News conten from Hartford in Regard to "Mark Twate's" banky.

[Hartford Correspondence of the New York Sun.]
Under ordinary circumstances it would ne doubt be judicious to withhold from the public doubt be judicious to withhold from the public the information which I am about to communicate. But as exaggerated seconts of Mr. Mark Twain's present condition are already in circulation here in town, and these false reports are dikely, sooner or later, to reach the cause of the humority friends in other parts of the country, causing them greater solicitude than the true facts warrant, it seems best to publish an securate and authentic statement, of the case, ...

It is well known that Mr. Clemens is subject to protracted spells of profound inclaucholy, usually culminating in hallneshations of the most bizarte character. After one of those attacks, he was seized with another and unappropriate the control of the second tacks the was seized with sanddon and unaccountable but intense hatred for a bust of Calvin, presented to Mrs. Clemens on her wedding day by her uncle, a chergyman. Mark Twain fancied that this harmless image meant to do day by her their, a courgement man, awant fancied that this harmless image meant to do him evil; and after heaping contamuly on his fee by disafgaring the pleater, face with inked muttachies and a gootee, he at last put an end to the imaginary feed and to the bast by denotishing it with a poker. At another time Twain believed himself to be the real chiltor of Gon. Joe Hawley's newspaper, the Courant, and his illusion hed to some complications that would have been amusing if they had not been serious. Again, it is said, he tried to take up a collection along the middle size of the Rev. Joe Twitteleil's church, at the moment fancying himself a deacen. By similar illusions he has been led at times to attempt an active part in politics.

I turned sout, was no ask to resson with him. Happily, these attacks do not last, as a rule, more than ten days or a fortnight, and the friends of the clever humorist have no cause for serious anxiety on his part.

There is a very wide difference between doing a thing for the fun of it, and glory, or doing it, for break and butter. Many people have an idea that praise is sufficient compensation for the skillful workman. Especially does this seem to be the iden in regard to artists. Even in the highly esthetic cities of the east, where art is supposed to be adored and fostered, artists have to talk very vehicily to make it under the high called the state of the control of the co in the highly restluctic cities of the east, where are is exposed to be adored and fostered, artists have to talk very plainly to make it understood that they have bread and butter folia to pay just the same as common folks, and that their butcher and baker doo't credit them a single cent for all the compliments and praise they besto vers mony rolls or luscious stocks. Just ontitie the gate of heaven stands the city of Bostom and in this semi-colostial city is there museum. In speaking of this musoum its firsters and the subject "Glory vs. Bread," which we have-kneeled upon, a writer to the New York Tribune says: "The art auscum suffers from being gractically controlled by a board of trastees who are mainly wealthy men, and regard the support of the dignity of the institution as the chief fully required of them. It is to their influence the fact is largely due that all efforts of the activation of birth and the fortunate sequirement of would, from the values as staged for daily bread and butter, they fall to perceive that artists are not causily favored, and superprised that they consider some practical return for their work the first prerequisite, and clory the last, of such an exhibition. Thus it happens that the museum, whose main intent is the imparting of instruction in the growth and tendencies of art, has almost no example of contemporary painters. A committee has under considers.

Formerly, it is true, we required no protection for the fine for and feather, as then the killing of such was not a matter of trafe or traffic. In those primitive times of Organ gaining was not so lavishly followed as at the proceed time; it was only through requirements of bome communition, or legitimate pleasure at most, that our game suffered at the hands of the gamest and it; those days there was no market to staffin and glut; no epicuriari people to germandize; and, besides, other chandels of trade epicach themselves more prospectively. But now, what a change has been wrought. Has the ones prolling manutrally decayed? Have our legitimate sports, and have smong it? Or has the vanton insatiate butcher potted their ranks? This latter we must verily believe; and passessing such a knowledge of the facts, the legislature spowfal years ago provided enactments against this wanton and malicious descruction of game in and out of season, lunging thereby to our join the market hunter to such a digree as to perfore all the requirements, intents and purposes of the law.
